

McAdams, John

From: Office of the Provost
Sent: Thursday, November 10, 2016 11:55 AM
To: DL-HR-OTR-Combined
Cc: Baworowsky, John; Cole, Xavier; Hossenlopp, Jeanne; Kaser, Dale; Meyer, Gary; Myers, Daniel; Su, John; Watson, Jenny; Woods, Doug
Subject: Title Correction -- Save the Date

I made a serious error in the title (a slip of the keyboard that has serious implications) for the Save the Date announcement and wish to correct it immediately. I apologize to all.

Here is the accurate announcement for the January Faculty day.

Susan Mountin

SAVE THE DATE!
Wednesday, January 11, 2017
8:30 a.m. -2:30 p.m.
Eckstein Hall Conference Center
Faculty Conversations on Learning

FREEDOM DREAMS NOW:
BLACK LIVES, BROWN LIVES, NATIVE LIVES: WHOSE LIVES MATTER?!

The goals of this interdisciplinary all-campus faculty day are to:

- Provide a framework to discuss the social movements around African American, Latinx, and Native American lives
- Explore strategies for responding to student resistance to learning about the protest strategies of these groups
- Engage in interdisciplinary dialogue and conversation with faculty and students about the impact of these movements at Marquette and the Milwaukee community

Keynote by Joseph Brown, S.J.,
Director of the Africana Studies Department,
Southern Illinois University.

Register at: <http://marquette.edu/ctl/workshops/workshops-rsvp.php>

Co-sponsored by Manresa for Faculty, the College of Arts and Sciences, the Office of the Provost, the Center for Teaching and Learning, the Office of Institutional Diversity and Inclusion, and the Jesuit Community at Marquette University.

Susan M. Mountin, Ph.D.
Marquette University
Director, Manresa for Faculty
Director, Pastoral Leadership in a Cultural Context
Zilber 360
PO Box 1881
Milwaukee, WI 53201-1881
414-288-3693